DESCRIPTION

Serving as the general contractor, CGT Construction executed the full-scale transformation of this lower-level space into an expansive, modern basement suite in Voorhees, New Jersey. The project required a sophisticated balance of custom interior design and subterranean engineering rigor—spanning moisture mitigation, structural adjustments, and the precision installation of high-performance HVAC and lighting systems. By pairing custom millwork and tactile finishes with multi-zone layouts for entertainment and relaxation, we redefined the home's footprint into an elevated, highly functional extension of the main living area. This renovation stands as a clear example of our commitment to quality subterranean craftsmanship, delivering long-term structural durability alongside enduring lifestyle value.
